PROFESSIONAL TRACK

MANAGING COMPLEXITY WITH DESIGN THINKING

Tolis Volonasis

has successfully completed the Professional Track in October, November and December 2017. This DESIGN THINKING implementation program is a 3 modules training- and application-format that includes 10 practice-days at the HPI School of Design Thinking in Potsdam as well as respective follow-up work in the participant´s organization.

As a member of a multidisciplinary team, the participant experienced, applied and transferred the 9 basic principles of COMPLETE DESIGN THINKING to an own business project. With a Design Thinking mindset, the participant worked on complex challenges in the 3 main areas of organizational value creation:

COLLABORATION CULTURE, INNOVATION PROCESSES & STRATEGY IMPLEMENTATION.

The participant has acquired the ability to use the Design Thinking principles and tools for LEADING A TEAM working on complex projects.

The HPI School of Design Thinking (D-School) and the d.school at Stanford University (USA) are the pioneer institutes of professional Design Thinking education, with numerous Design Thinking research programs and more than a decade of experience in Design Thinking Application.
